L.D.S. TEMPLE DEDICATION

Prest. Jos. F. Smith Spoke Dedicatorial Prayer. 2000 People Present

CARDSTON JULY 27th '09.
The visit of President Smith and party in the dedication of the temple site and the conference held in Cardston, makes an epoch in the history of the Latter Day Saints in Canada.

They came in from Great Falls on Saturday last and held conference in Cardston on Sunday, the dedication of the temple site being made after the afternoon services. Pres. Smith offering the dedicatory prayer. The temple is to stand to the west and north of the Alberta Stake Tabernacle and will be sixty feet from the west line and one hundred fifteen feet from the north line in the north-west corner of the block on which the tabernacle stands, and will likely be built of native stone found in the vicinity of Cardston. The services, like all those of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, were simple and impressive. Pres. Penrose and Presiding Bishop Nibley made short addresses, appropriate selections being sung by the Cardston choir.

The LEADERS special correspondent at the dedicatory services was extended the courtesy by Pres. Wood of accompanying. Prest. Smiths party on a tour of inspection covering the Cochrane Ranch and including the towns of Hill Spring and Glenwood.

From various sources automobiles were obtained, possibly commanded by the Alberta Stake President and about 10.30 A. M. the party sailed merrily away from Cardston to the West, following the southern boundary of the Blood Reserve, past forest of wheat barley oats and hay, over roads of black loam that rose and fell, now poising on the crest of the hills, now scuttling across bridges spanning streams, threading fertile valleys past Leavitt and Caldwell to the brink of the noble —ly river which flowed turbulently between grassy or hilly banks rushing on toward its confluence with the Waterton and St. Mary's. A short stop at the graceful iron bridge erected at the cost of many thousands of dollars by the Provincial Government gave us time to replenish the steaming reservoirs of our swift, rubber shod, gasoline fed steeds and to leave a note for one of the fishers, the provident Prest. Wood had whipping the stream for trout, to supply the President's lunch at the Round Corral two miles up stream. A few twists of the attached antennae between the eyes of the odorous monster confronting us, a few swiftly increasing staccato expectations, a quick jerk that threatened the head end of our vertebrae and we shot quickly up a short hill and out among the grasses and wild flowers the road leading to the Waterton Lakes.

Approaching the mountain cove where lay the lake and whence debauched the river was like rushing into the embrace of the colossal peaks that towered for thousands of feet above us, threatening us as with the jaws of some stupendous Moloch that ground its victims to pieces, while we mired upon the surface of a great globe could only gasp with admiration, prostrating our souls before the infinite. Spit spit, and the raucous grind and away we sped to lunch. They called it lunch and such a lunch, repast, dinner banquet, orgie for all these when we stood face to face with a bushel of fried trout, fresh mind, not trout from cold storage. Space forbids further reveling in the memory of that feast. Having oast the lunch, which we did again and again, it seems almost as though there is nothing more to be said. But an unexpected and hitherto unexperienced agony yet awaited us. We fled to the north over those stretches of fertile country until we reached Glenwood, then the Bangalow and agony.

The Bangalow is the ranch residence of Prest. E. J. Wood, the agony was our inability to do even any sort of justice to the delicious luncheon that had been prepared for us by Prest. Wood's estimable wife.

The last leg of our journey lay before us across the Blood Reservation which the bloody indians will not leave to small farmers or stock men.

Eighty miles of whirling rhapsody, our tired thanks to our entertainers, home, the sweet cool calm night and a rare day of enjoyment was ended, as ended will be all things.

Taylor Stake Conference

The morning session of the conference opened by singing "We Thank Thee O God for a Prophet." Theo. Brandley offered prayer. The choir rendered "When the Sun in Splendor Kisses" beautifully.

Apostle Geo. A. Smith then addressed the congregation. He exhorted the parents to teach their children the principles of clean and upright living, for if they neglected to do so, the sin of their waywardness would have to be accounted for by the parents. He illustrated his theme with a very beautiful and impressive story.

James Walker sang "Lead Kindly Light".

Prest. Joseph F. Smith took the stand. In a powerful discourse he confirmed Apostle Smith's remarks. As examples for the children to follow, in the formation of their characters, he pointed the Prophet Joseph Smith, Brigham Young, Jno Taylor, Wilford Woodruff and Lorenzo Snow, all of whom he had known personally. Such a talk, coming as it did from his heart, could not help but make his hearers feel that the sincere pure life of "our own Prophet" was indeed worthy of emulation.

The Junior girls of the First Ward sang a sweet little chorus "We are the Bess of Deseret." After which the benediction was pronounced by Orrin H. Snow.

In the afternoon session the choir sang the hymn, "Lo, the Mighty God Appearing" followed by prayer, after which the choir rendered the anthem, "God Is Our Refuge and Strength."

Miss Dorothy Young then sang the solo, "The Unknown Grave." Bro. C. W. Penrose, of the First Presidency of the Church, then delivered a splendid address on how important it is to make the most of our lives here that we may be prepared for the hereafter. He explained everything so clearly and logically that one could not help but see the truth in what he stated. Bishop C. W. Nibley, presiding Bishop of the Church, spoke a few minutes on temporal affairs in our lives. He mentioned the importance of supporting our sugar industry here, as it is a benefit to all. His remarks were very clear and reasonable. A solo and quartette was then rendered by Chorister Geo. O. Nye and Co. Pres. Smith then spoke a few minutes, endorsing heartily what had been said and expressing his pleasure of meeting with the Saints here under such favorable conditions. The names of the General and Local authorities were then presented. After prayer by Pres. Wood, of the Alberta Stake, the conference was adjourned for three months.

Ray Knight shipped two carloads of hogs and four carloads of sheep to Winnipeg this week. Mr. C. Watson, an independent buyer, purchased them, paying 7½ cents for the hogs, no shrinkage, and 5½ cents for the sheep, with 4 per cent allowance for shrinkage.

An Incident That Hastened the Reconciliation.

Aunt Helen idolized Bertie. Bertie Strong idolized Aunt Helen, and Bertie, as far as his youth would permit, idolized both Aunt Helen and Henry Strong. That was why he felt vaguely aggrieved that he saw so little of Mr. Henry these days, and had he known that his small person he performed his duty and made the two objects of his adoration he would have felt doubly aggrieved.

What he did know was that Mr. Henry had taken to walking on the other

Don't forget to attend the geological classes held by Sister McCune tomorrow and Sunday.

Miss Lou Neilson, accompanied by the Misses Harker and Lee, returned down from Cardston yesterday afternoon. Mesdames Ericson and Dehlin accompanied them to the Waterton Lakes this morning.

Anyone who has not been through the grain fields in this district will be greatly benefited in spirit and in body by taking a trip through them, the wheat, barley and oats being unsurpassed by any preceding year.

The combined choirs of the Raymond 1st and 2nd Wards furnished the music for the quarterly conference. Mr. Nye and the members are to be highly complimented on their excellent rendition of some very difficult anthems.

"Yes I am the mother of three children, two of whom are living. Use them—excuse these tears—" "Yes certainly, you poor dear!" "The other works in a store that doesn't advertise."

Everyone was glad to see John Green step off the Lethbridge train Saturday night. The reason for his visit still remains a profound secret, however his broad smile Monday morning gave us a slight clue.

We would like to offer the suggestion to some of our stores that they keep the sidewalks in front of their places a little cleaner. It looks bad to visitors coming in and seeing parts of our business section in such a condition.

Mesdames Cazier, Daynes and accompanied Mrs. A. W. McCune from Cardston down to the Relief Society conference here. They report that never has Cardston enjoyed a Relief Society conference like the one held there recently.

Mrs. McCune will hold classes in genealogical work Saturday and Sunday. Everyone interested in this great work should attend.

Anyone who doubts what Alberta can grow should look over the ten acre plot of ground owned by J. H. Solmon across the canal. His lot is quite alone surrounded by dry uncultivated land and it truly looks a garden in the desert. On his ground as in many other Raymond gardens the desert is certainly "blooming as a rose."

Miss Matilda Walton, of the domestic art and science department, is now at the University of Chicago, where she is enjoying her work immensely.

With such excellent prospects for crops, it is not difficult to forecast a heavy enrollment at the Academy this coming year.

Our Friends In Lethbridge

At the ceremony of baptism performed by the Latter Day Saints last week at Henderson Park there was a goodly sprinkling of holiday makers, people who were spending the day out at that popular Lethbridge resort. Baptism by immersion seemed to be something of a novelty to some of those present, as by their remarks they were witnessing that made for the first time, and to their credit be it said that not only were they respectful, they were reverent as well.

A Good Time Coming

Next Tuesday evening, beginning at 7 o'clock, there will be a supper served on Dufrane lawn by the 2nd Ward Domestic Science girls. The price is to be 25c and the bill of fare speaks loudly enough for the quality of the 150 people meal.

MENU: Vegetable Soup, Roast Fillet of Veal with dressing, Baked Potatoes with brown gravy, French Rolls and Butter, Creamed Green Beans and Creamed Green Peas, Lettuce Salad, Potato Wafers and Tea, C.offee, Milk or Water. Such a menu makes a man hungry just to write it.

Everybody come and enjoy yourselves. There will be an open air concert by the band and some of the talent of the town from 7 to 10 o'clock. Everybody invited.
